Why you'll love our Accreditation and Employer Services...

Bespoke to suit you

Many off-the-shelf training programmes are broad in nature and contain aspects of learning that aren't relevant to your employees. By developing your own training, you're able to tailor it to suit the context of your business and your employees.

Improve staff skills and retention

Accredited internal training can be utilised to improve specific soft or technical skills and provide you with a pool of talented staff, armed with the knowledge to go above and beyond in their roles. Plus, encouraging staff to advance their personal development can help improve retention.

A stamp of approval

Having your training accredited by a nationally recognised awarding organisation is a stamp of approval which can enhance the value of your in-house training, giving you recognition for the quality and robustness of your training programmes.

Specialist support

Your organisation can benefit from the expertise of our subject specialists here at NCFE, who will help you to tailor your products to certain markets and sectors. You'll also benefit from an annual quality audit from our Accreditation and Employer Services team, covering all your Endorsed Programmes.

Co-branded certification

Certificates acknowledge and celebrate the new skills, knowledge and competence that employees have achieved through their training. For those using our Customised Qualification solution, your employees will receive a co-branded learner certificate from NCFE. For our Endorsed Programme route, you'll benefit from the use of our logo on any certificates that you decide to issue – reinforcing the gold-star quality of your training provision.

Fast and efficient service

We know how busy you are, so we aim to accredit your qualifications within 15 working days of your application as an approved centre. Plus, our friendly, responsive and informed staff are always on hand to provide you with support.

Our solutions

We offer two solutions when it comes to supporting you to deliver bespoke in-house training:

Customised Qualifications

Customised Qualifications are the perfect solution for your organisation if you have training needs that regulated qualifications aren't meeting. Customised Qualifications are unregulated qualifications which are written and owned by you and benchmarked against the national qualifications framework and have learning outcomes and assessment criteria.

With Customised Qualifications we issue your certificates, which demonstrate the new skills, knowledge and competence your employees have achieved.

Endorsed Programmes

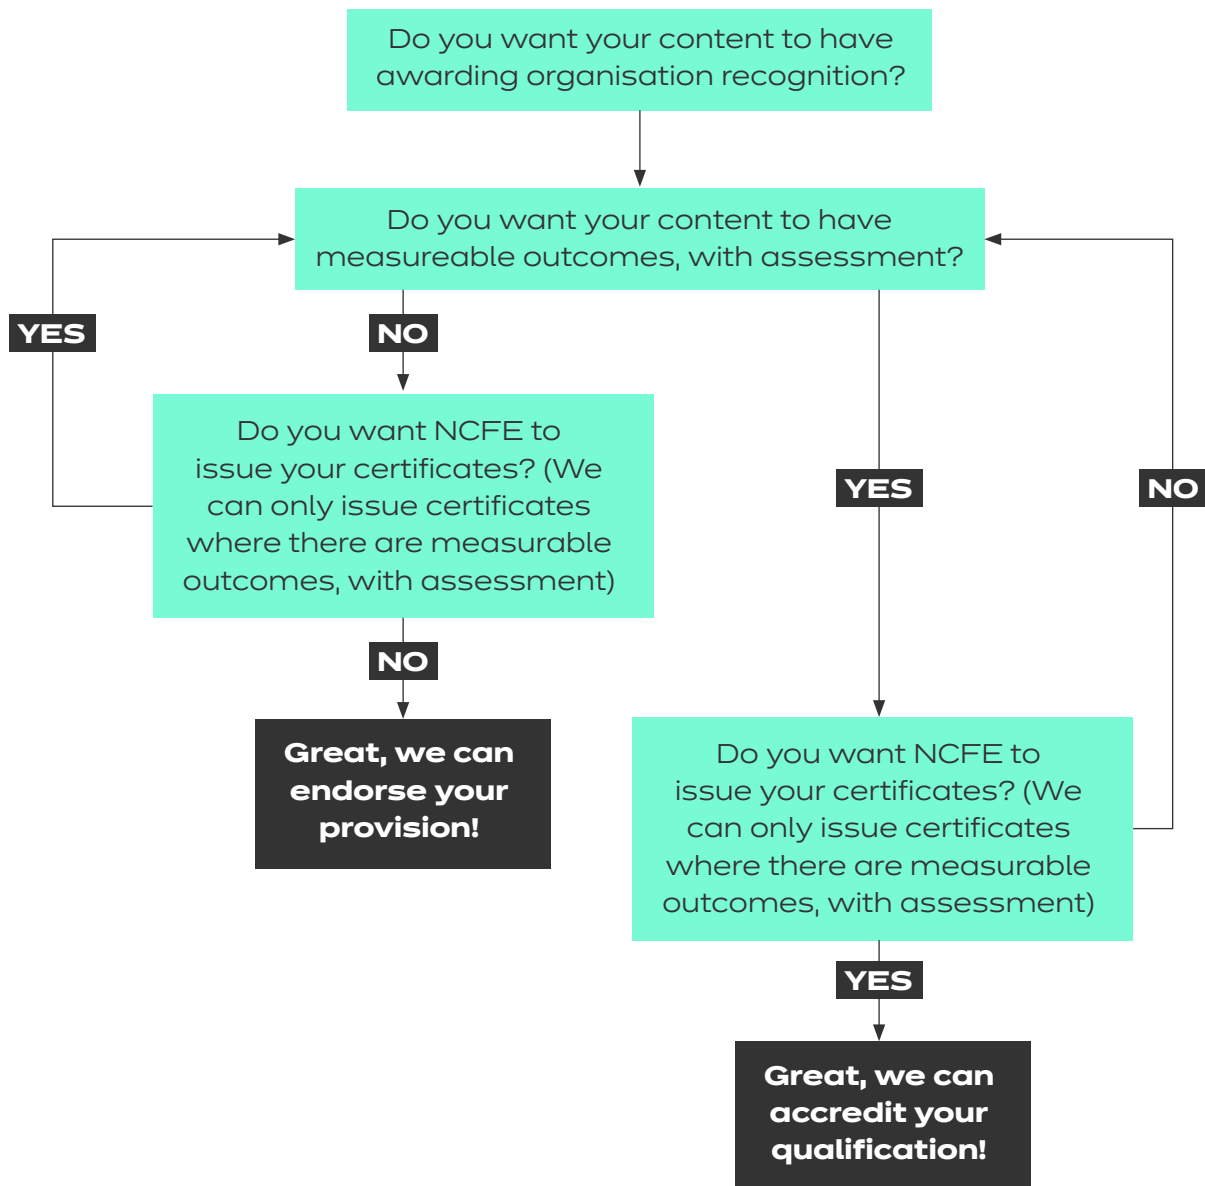

Endorsed Programmes will suit your organisation if you have informal CPD training activities with no formal assessment criteria which you'd like to be quality benchmarked.

With Endorsed Programmes, we give you the freedom to issue certificates of attendance and completion to your employees without having to request them from us. You're able to add our endorsed logo to your certificates to sit side-by-side with your own logo and branding, helping to reinforce the quality of your training.

Examples of activities that could fit within Endorsed Programmes include:

- presentations
- workshops
- webinars
- seminars
- online training.

Which is the best option for me?

5 simple steps to accreditation

1

Becoming an NCFE centre

If you don't currently work with NCFE and want to offer a Customised Qualification or Endorsed Programme, you'll need to apply for centre approval.

2

Reviewing your content

Once your centre has gained approval, we'll then start the review of your content – benchmarking it against our levelling system to ensure it is of the highest quality.

3

Adding your qualification or programmes to our systems

After we've approved your content, we'll then add your qualification or programmes to our systems – giving you a qualification or unique code.

4

Delivering your qualification or programme

Once accredited, you can begin delivering your qualification or programme with the knowledge it has been accredited or endorsed by NCFE.

5

Certification

If your employees have completed a Customised Qualification, you can then go ahead and claim for their certificates via our user-friendly Portal. You'll receive not only a hard copy, but a digital version too. For Endorsed Programmes, you can go ahead and issue your own certificates with our endorsed logo.
