Narrative The student is working with a small group of children using fact cards with words on and looking at what these mean. To help one child to understand empathy she is explaining how we all have favourite things and asks this pupil about his favourite things, what do you like to play with? Conversation: Pupil: What like my football game on the computer? Student: Yes OK so if how would you feel if you couldn't play on your football game because it was broken? Pupil: I would play a different game. (laughs) Student: Yes clever you, OK what if your computer was broken? Pupil: I would be a bit bored cos I love it and I would be grumpy I bet! Student: OK so if I was showing you empathy I would listen to you tell me how you were feeling because you couldn't play on the computer and I would understand how that was making you feel, so I listen, I show I understand and this is what empathy means. The student extends the learning through open ended questions: Can you think of an example now? I tell you what, will you collaborate with Pupil here (another child on table) and I will come back for an example or you can share it at the end in group time? Is that OK? Pupils: Yeah that's good, how do you say it? Student: Empathy, empathy, got it? The pupils working on empathy look at the student, the student asks if they have thought of an example. Pupil: Yes but it isn't a sentence. Student: That's OK I am sure we would like to hear the example. Teacher: If you have found an example for empathy that would be marvellous, have a go! Pupil reads out example and is praised by student and Teacher. The pupil beams. The student is asked to share information about the infant mentor system, the buddy programme and she explains what this is and how it will work. The pupils are asked to volunteer to be mentors/buddies and everyone puts up their hand. Student explains the process: Great, we will meet our 'buddies' on Friday so shall we think of ways that we can welcome them? The student addresses the whole group and then, asking individual groups to think of 2 ways she circulates. The pupils are asked to write their ideas on a large piece of paper and a group discussion is held which the student manages independently. Assessor shares the praise from the Teacher and a conversation about careers is briefly discussed. The students reflects on the activity explaining that was focused on friendships. The assessor asks why the student was making notes throughout the observation. The student responds that she has notes against some of the pupils to try and develop some areas of skills. The student shares the document and explains that she will share this with the Teacher and together they amend the lessons moving forward or update any records once they have discussed the individual efforts of the children. The student continues to explain about early intervention: 'This can support early intervention too, sometimes children will struggle in certain areas of share information that is sensitive and it is critical that I pass this on appropriately and within the policy and procedures of the school. This kind of activity allows pupils to express their feelings, to be honest it's what the RSHE curriculum really does, it allows for pastoral aspects to be brought into the classroom, allowing for pupils to talk about things, I think it's really important for wellbeing. For example at college we read that 10% of children are diagnosed with a mental health condition, a clinical mental health condition, so how many are not recognised I wonder? I think that a pastoral RSHE curriculum at least helps pupils to talk, gives them a space that is safe and secure you know' The assessor asks about the potential benefit of the buddy system and the student discusses how it will include everyone and promote a sense of achievement, a sense of doing good, making a difference and of course the support they offer through nurturing environments for the infants is immense. The student talks about the benefits of outdoor experiences for children and young people's wellbeing using examples to support the response.	S1.12 S3.33/S4.18 S3.35 S3.37 S3.40 S4.19 S4.21 S1.8 S1.9/S2.9 S1.11 S1.15 S2.8 S2.13 S2.17 S3.36 S3.38 S3.39

Structured observation 3 Marking Criteria

When completing the marking criteria, the assessor will score each discrete criterion. You will find the marking bands arranged per criteria in this document. A holistic approach has been used in this example.

Criteria: S1.8, S1.9/S2.9, S1.11, S1.12, S1.15, S2.8, S2.13, S2.17, S3.33/S4.18, S3.35, S3.36, S3.37, S3.38, S3.39, S3.40, S4.19, S4.21

Feedback

The student has an obvious rapport with the class. The student was able to support each pupil, was able to respond to questions, reassuring them and supporting their understanding appropriate to their stage, and needs. The environment was calm and relaxed with a sense of engagement; the student established and maintained this throughout.

The student is highly skilled at role modelling to encourage pupils to develop positive relationships, empathy and care for others being at the core of the lesson plan. The student appropriately supports pupils to create realistic, challenging and achievable targets in line with setting approach, this is evidenced by collaborative planning.

The student confidently and consistently offers specific praise and encouragement and sensitively encourages pupils to recognise own achievement, seen when encouraging pupils to contribute their ideas.

Throughout the interactions with the pupils, the student demonstrates a high level of confidence when supporting pupils to take opportunities to be independent and take ownership of their learning. Planning and provision is effective to incorporate the promotion of equality of opportunity and anti-discriminatory practice.

The student was an effective and consistent role model throughout the process, praising, encouraging and attentive throughout. Able to recognise when pupils needed encouragement and when to extend learning.

Highly effective communicator, actively listening to and sensitively acknowledging pupils' experience and feelings, allowing pupils to safely express their feelings. This is evident in all interactions and way of collaborating with the pupils as the student consistently models high levels of professional behaviours.

The student effectively follows agreed behaviour management strategies in line with school policy throughout and conducts herself in an inclusive way. Confidence is demonstrated when clarifying classroom rules and reinforcing pupils' positive behaviour. The student uses positive behaviour strategies routinely and clarifies rules fairly and promptly.

All children engaged by the student and all questions raised confidently managed with appropriate sensitivity and with personal regard, (ie the example using football to make the point clear).

Appropriate responses are given that show clear understanding of how to support pupils to create realistic, challenging and achievable targets in line with setting approach. High level of understanding of how to support and promote positive self-concept through positive practice. The student maintained the engagement and motivation throughout and was able to educate the pupils with regard to empathy and how the buddy system would support this.

An appreciation of the benefits of outdoor educational, inclusive experiences considers holistic learning, development and emotional wellbeing with relevant examples offered confidently through reflection. Health and safety management in line with school policy and procedures is referred to and reflected upon in context.

Assessment justification

The Assessor must encourage discussion around outdoor experiences and the requirements of the national curriculum. The discussion should show student awareness of educational experiences outdoors such as group tasks outdoors, walks and trips, but also aware of the advantage of good weather and spontaneous occasions to take learning outdoors. The student should be able to reflect on outdoor experiences in the context of their industry placement.

Professional discussion should also capture the student's appreciation of the benefits to holistic health and wellbeing of outdoor activities and the significance of health and safety management in line with school policy and procedures as appropriate.

Excellent recognition of a range of spontaneous opportunities to enhance pupils' mathematical understanding. Skilfully consolidates and extends pupils' mathematical understanding in different contexts and across a range of mathematical concepts.

Assessment justification

There may be opportunities to apply mathematical concepts in sessions planned for literacy. For example, stories offered for younger children may include counting, size and elements of time and therefore students should be prepared to discuss any mathematical learning opportunities that are relevant to the session observed in their professional discussion as appropriate.
